About This Game

- A completely free arena shooter. No fees, no microtransactions.
- Fun for everyone, young and old, noob or expert.
- Available for Windows, GNU/Linux, BSD, and macOS.
- Parkour, impulse boosts, dashing, and other tricks.
- A huge amount of mutators and game altering variables.
- Create maps with other players in realtime co-op edit.
- Over ten years of active development, and still going!

Red Eclipse is a fun-filled new take on the first person arena shooter, featuring parkour, impulse boosts, and more. The development is geared toward balanced gameplay, with a general theme of agility in a variety of environments. With the built-in editor, you can even create maps cooperatively with other players online.

In a "by the people, for the people" nature, we try to work closely with our community and invite everyone to have their say in order to provide a better overall experience, aiming to create a game environment that is fun and easy to play, while still having elements to master. If you think you might have something to contribute to the game or community, please feel free to talk to us. We try to maintain a standard of friendly behaviour in our community, so don't be afraid to speak up and have your say in building this game for us all!

The project is developed by volunteers, and you get it free of charge; your contributions keep this project alive. It is a Free and Open Source game, built on Cube Engine 2 and Tesseract using SDL and OpenGL which allows it to be ported to many platforms. You're encouraged to get involved with the community and help evolve the game.
